

Autonomous School Zurich (ASZ)

What is the Autonomous School Zurich (ASZ)

The ASZ is a self-organized school. It's a project to fight racism and injustice. Everyone can come here to learn. There are German courses and many other offers. There's also a café where people meet and get to know each other.

How does the Autonomous School Zurich (ASZ) work?

The ASZ is a self-organized collective and independent of the government. Everybody coming here plays a very important role for the school. There is no boss in ASZ. "Autonomous" is being independent and also self-organized. This school is not a governmental project and gets no help or financial assistance from the government. The ASZ collects donations from private persons and organisations.

How is the Autonomous School Zurich (ASZ) organised?

Everyone involved in the ASZ comes voluntarily. Important decisions are made once a month in a plenary meeting. There are working groups for various duties and tasks. Everyone is responsible for making the school a collective, positive place.
